

SCOPES MUST STAND TRIAL, JUDGE DECREED TODAY

COUNCIL TO INSIST S. D. & E. REMOVE TIES FROM STREETS

No Objection Voiced by the Council to Company Ceasing Service

At the regular weekly meeting of the city council last evening, notice of the proposed discontinuance of service by the Sterling, Dixon & Eastern Electric railway in this city, Sterling and the interurban line connecting both cities was read. The communication stated that the company had operated at a loss of $22,864.46 during the first six months of the present year. It was also represented to the council that the company desired to remove trolleys and rails of the city lines.

Company's Position.

The position of the S. D. & E. was fully explained in the following letter to the city:

"Gentlemen: It has been decided by the officers and directors of the Sterling, Dixon and Eastern Electric Railway company to make application to the Illinois Commerce Commission to discontinue the service now being rendered in Sterling and Dixon and between these two towns, by this company.

Loss Has Been Heavy.

"As you are no doubt aware for the past several years the loss by the operation of this railway has been quite considerable. For the year ending Dec. 31st, 1924, the net railway loss from operation was $25,608.61, not including bond interest in amount of $22,500, which if added to the operating loss would make a deficit of $48,108.61. The number of city passengers carried in Sterling for the year 1924 was 143,107, on the interurban between Sterling and Dixon 79,612, and for the city of Dixon 116,615.

"For the six months ending June 30th, 1925, the deficit for operation before bond interest was $12,608.46, to which if added six months bond interest of $11,250 would make a loss of the first six months of 1925 of $23,858.46. The number of passengers carried in this period was as follows: Sterling 67,817, interurban line 38,767, and Dixon 54,767.

"From these figures you can readily understand that there must come a time when money can be no longer appropriated for the operation of a property showing the loss of this large amount of money.

"It is the desire of the company to discontinue the operation of this property with the least possible expenditure of money and for this reason the application has been made to the Illinois Commerce Commission rather than through a receivership proceedings. We are therefore giving you this advance notice in the anticipation that we will have your co-operation in discontinuing the service now being given by the railway company.

"It is understood and agreed should the Illinois Commerce Commission grant the company's petition to discontinue operation of the railway, in that event, as the tracks are removed from the streets of your city, the railway company agrees that the paving where the rails are removed shall be replaced at the company's expense. The company will remove the trolley poles where required without damage or injury to the street or abutting property.

"We should be glad to hear from you with a letter indicating the satisfaction of the council of your city to this action on your part in order that your attitude in this matter may be presented to the Illinois Commerce Commission."

Some objections were voiced by the members of the council but not in relation to the cessation of service in the city. Through the business part of the city the council favored some understanding with the traction company relative to the steel ornamental poles, where the trolley lines are supported. It was the consensus of the council that with the removal of the trolley wires, the steel poles should be cut down to a uniform height and a decorative cap placed on top.

Must Take Up Ties.

The council was unanimous in exacting that the company in the removal of its equipment and property, that the ties supporting the rails throughout the city be removed at the same time the lines are torn up and not be permitted to remain in the streets. Members of the council were of the opinion that the traction company shall replace all streets with the same material of which they are constructed, and the city attorney was instructed to forward a communication to the company at once, setting forth the provisions whereby the council will agree to the discontinuance of service here.

The applications of Ora Holderman on Depot avenue and Ed. Lambert on North Galena avenue for applications to conduct soft drink parlors were read and allowed.

LEGAL EFFORT TO DRY UP BRITISH SHIPS DEFEATED

Federal Judge Denies Injunction Against Cunard Officers

New York, July 15—(AP)—Legal proceedings have failed for the second time to upset the arrangement whereby Americans, traveling to Europe on British ships, satiate their thirst in a manner forbidden at home.

Federal Judge Mack yesterday dismissed injunction proceedings brought against the Cunard Line and others in an effort to prevent its vessels from bringing liquor into port under seal. Some months ago a similar action involving the Cunard Line Berengaria failed.

Both suits were brought by the Neptune Association, an organization of deck officers of vessels of American registry. The complainant argued that the rum treaty between the United States and Great Britain was unconstitutional. This treaty gives the United States the right to search British ships for contraband liquor within an hour's steaming distance of shore and to seize them. In return, British vessels have the right to bring liquor into American ports under seal. The complainant argued that this treaty and similar arrangements with other countries were violating the 18th amendment and the Volstead act, and that as a result patronage which American vessels might receive was going to British craft.

Judge Mack refused to consider the constitutional question saying that it was unnecessary. He dismissed the proceedings on the ground that the courts had no right to compel prosecuting officers to enforce penal laws.

"The remedy for inactivity of that kind is with the executive and ultimately with the people," he said.

Illinois Once an Area of Sub-Tropical Seas, Belief

Chicago, July 15.—(AP)—Fossils of the ancestors of sharks, ray fish and suckers, which flourished 480,000,000 years ago in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky are part of a collection of plant and animal life in the mid-western United States being reconstructed at the Field Museum.

The epoch from the Ordovician period, 480,000,000 years ago, to the Pennsylvania, or coal age, 230,000,000 years later is covered by the collection part of which was given to the museum by William W. Borden, of Borden, Ind.

From the fossils, S. K. Roy, assistant in invertebrate paleontology and assembler of the collection, theorizes that the meddwest was once an area of sub-tropical seas. Progenitors of the modern snails, clams and devil fish were natives of these seas. Spogues grew profusely.

In the Pennsylvania age, ferns in Illinois grew as tall as trees.

Chicago Brothers Were Apprehended in Dixon

Timothy and Walter McCauley, aged 11 and 12 years respectively, brothers of 2921 Archer avenue, Chicago, are being held at the police station awaiting the arrival of relatives. The boys were picked up by the police Monday night and detained. They left home Monday without funds and with very few clothes, headed for California.

FORMER TEACHER IN BEND DIED IN NEB. CAPITAL LAST WEEK

George W. Berge, Brother of Mrs. A. M. McNicol, Victim of Stroke

Mrs. A. M. McNicol, returned Tuesday afternoon from Lincoln, Neb., where she attended the funeral of George W. Berge. Mr. Berge was at one time a student at Dixon College and later studied law under Judge J. W. Watts, where he remained three years. Many Dixon people will also remember him as a teacher at the Bend school. The Lincoln Star contained the following concerning his death:

George W. Berge, 61, formerly an active figure in democratic politics of the state, and a prominent Lincoln lawyer, died suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy at 6:05 p. m. Tuesday at his home.

He was lying on a couch on the porch when members of the family discovered he was unconscious. By the time Dr. H. J. Lehnhoff, a neighbor, could arrive, he was dead. A stroke of paralysis in 1920 caused a serious illness at that time and caused Mr. Berge's retirement from public life.

As candidate for congress in 1900, for governor in 1904 and 1914, and attorney general in 1918, Mr. Berge became an outstanding figure in the democratic party of Nebraska. For a time he was editor of the Nebraska Independent, which he had purchased.

During his thirty years of law practice in this city, Mr. Berge was associated with several firms and individuals. Among them were the late Judge W. M. Morning, the late J. S. McCarty and John J. Ledwith. His law library was considered one of the finest in the state, and his skill in examining witnesses and presenting a case to the jury has been widely commented on.

For ten years from 1910 to 1920, Mr. Berge was one of the best known lawyers in Lincoln. Most of that time he was senior member of the firm of Berge and McCarty.

He was often retained in suits against railroads for negligence. He carried several cases to the court of appeals at St. Louis and to the United States Supreme court.

Took Up Farming

Realizing in 1915 that his health was beginning to fail under the strain of many activities, Mr. Berge attempted to break away from the law practice by developing a two-section farm in western Nebraska. He spent six months of each year on his farm from that time until 1920.

He was often supervised and care brought this land to a high state of improvement. Instead of helping his health, however, his heavy work on the farm together with the activities he still kept up

Sidelights on Monkey Case as Seen by the A. P.

Dayton, Tenn., July 15.—Dayton prepared for a flood and received a shower. The anticipated crowds have failed to materialize. Although hundreds of people have visited the town since the Scopes trial started, the numbers have fallen far beneath the sanguine expectations of Daytians.

Amplifiers arranged at various places about town have had scarcely more than a handful of listeners.

Concession stands, excepting those in favorable spots find few customers.

DIXON LEGION TO STATE MEET WITH BIG FLOAT

Will Ask Assistance of Business Men for Their Finances

Dixon post, No. 12, American Legion, held an important meeting in the hall last evening which was well attended. The post voted to sponsor a troop of Boy Scouts and elected Elwin Bunnell as scoutmaster, with instruction to proceed with the perfection of an organization at once.

It was also decided to hold the annual post picnic Sunday, August 2 at District Committeeman Sherwood Dixon's cabin in Lost Nation near Oregon. This picnic is to be for the members of the Legion only and no committee in charge of the food and entertainment have given assurance that it will be the best in the history of the post.

The members present were also very desirous of having the Dixon post as well as the city of Dixon well represented at the state Legion convention and Fun-Fest to be held in Sterling, August 6. The Sterling post expects 10,000 visitors in Sterling on that day and will have many prominent men as speakers, including three past national commanders and possibly Vice President Dawes. In view of this it was urged that Dixon should be well represented at this meeting. It was decided to send a color squad, firing squad and the Dixon post band, and all members who can be requested to attend the sessions, representing the local post.

A committee was also appointed to call upon the merchants of Dixon and seek their assistance in financing a motor Dixon float which will appear in the parade at the Sterling meeting, as well as to defray the expense of the band, Ray Gardner and Robert Anderson were elected as official delegates to the Sterling convention.

The new Legion caps, blue with the Legion emblem and post number, were received and distributed to those members who ordered them. The adjutant has some extra ones and announces that if any of the members care to secure these caps, he is ready to dispose of them to the first applying.

Many Cities Report All Time Records Broken By Torrid Wave

Chicago, July 17.—(AP)—Heat records continue to be broken in the midwest and the Rocky Mountain areas, the weather bureau guardians having to dig back in files of years ago to find any marks approaching the present wave.

The plateau states and the south west particularly Texas, were the greatest sufferers as the summer sun enticed the mercury toward its apogee. Salt Lake City, Utah; Pocatello, Idaho; Reno, Nev., and Lander, Wyo., experienced the hottest day yesterday since weather bureau figures have been kept, while another hot blast broke records for all time in central and northern Texas. At Wichita Falls, Tex., the official temperature was 109, while marks of 106 to 108 were common in Texas. The mark of 105.4 at Dallas shattered all heat records for the city, although a light shower there and at other points in the Lone Star State brought some relief.

Lander, which usually is looked to in winter to supply the "coldest point" record, qualified among the hottest with a record of 109, while Pocatello registered 104 and Salt Lake City 102.6. Street level thermometers at the latter point showed 108. Phoenix, Ariz., touched 108, but even this high figure was a drop of six degrees from Sunday, the hottest day of the summer there.

No immediate general relief was predicted. Chicago as usual went its even way as the dependable lake breezes swept the town.

Mrs. Margaret Burright Passed Away this Morn

Mrs. Margaret Burright, for many years a resident of Dixon, passed away at 1:20 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William S. Fletcher, at the age of 83 years. She had been in failing health for several years, but only the past few weeks was her condition critical. Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clyde Wicher, 512 Ottawa ave., at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore officiating, and with burial in Oakwood. The obituary will be published later.

Short Cruise Planned by President to Ship Yards

Swampscott, Mass., July 15.—(AP)—Another short cruise of the Mayflower—this time down to the shipyard—was President Coolidge's program for today. He was to return to the summer White House before night. The trip was arranged to give the executive an opportunity to inspect shipbuilding operations at the Fore River Yard where the new airplane carrier Lexington is nearing completion.

Mr. Coolidge also planned, while in Quincy, to visit the graves of two former presidents, John Adams and John Quincy Adams—the only men of Massachusetts besides himself ever sent to the White House.

News of Death of Mrs. Miller Fatal to Sister

Dixon relatives have received word of the death of Mrs. Anna Fike of Myerdsale, Pa., who died suddenly at her home Saturday upon receipt of news of the death of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Miller, who was buried here yesterday. Mrs. Fike, who has visited here at the Samuel Cramer home on many occasions, received a telegram Saturday afternoon announcing the death of her sister and was overcome by the shock. She died about an hour later without regaining consciousness. The funeral and burial will be held at Myerdsale.

Stolen Sterling Auto Abandoned in This City

A Nash touring car belonging to Mrs. L. Hodges, 306 Twelfth avenue, Sterling, which was stolen from the business section of that city Saturday night, was found last evening. Chief of Police Van Bibber and Officer Ehnstiel found the car abandoned on Third street west of College avenue. The stolen machine was returned to its owner this morning.

MONKEY CASE TO GO ON AS RESULT RULE

Judge Holds Indictment is Valid and Scopes Must Plead Today

Court Room, Dayton, Tenn., July 15.—By the Associated Press—Judge John T. Raulston today denied the defense's motion to quash the indictment against John T. Scopes. The judge's decision upheld the constitutionality of Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

The motion to quash was made Monday and the day was spent in argument. Judge Raulston was occupied all of yesterday in writing his position which was voluminous. The decision took up each contention of the defense and ruled that the defendant would be required to plead further.

Before reading his decision on the defense motion to quash, Judge Raulston consented to pose for photographers with the decision in his hand.

Discussed Authorities

After the judge read the grounds on which the defense sought to quash the motion he discussed the authorities cited.

Discussing the alleged discrepancy between the caption of the act and the body of the bill itself, he said:

"The general title to the act is one which is broad and comprehensive and covers all legislation germane to the general subject stated. The title may cover more than the body, but it must not cover less. It need not index the details of the act nor give a synopsis thereof."

In this particular case, he said, the caption of the act provided that purpose of the act is to prohibit the teaching of evolutionary subjects in the public schools of the state.

"It is true that this provision is rather general in its nature," he said, "and in my conception of the terms employed in the caption and body, those used in the caption are broader and more comprehensive than those employed in the body of the act, but in my opinion the caption covers all the legislation provided for in the body and is germane thereto and in no way obscures the legislation provided for."

Calls Caption Sufficient

"In my judgment, the caption x x x is sufficient to put any member of the legislature on notice as to what the nature of the proposed legislation is and that the caption is really more comprehensive than the body of the act."

The second point alleging a violation of the constitutional provision that the legislature should cherish literature and learning in schools of the state, he passed over with a brief statement of the law, since the point had not been pressed by the defense.

The Next Purely Technical Point

charging the bill had not been read a sufficient number of times in the two houses of the legislature before its enactment also was dismissed with a simple reading of the constitutional provision.

No Restraint in Worship

Taking up the next phrase, which alleged a violation of the constitutional right to worship God according to the dictates of the individual conscience, he declared he failed to see "how this act in any wise interfered or in the least restrains any person from worshipping God in the manner that pleases him. He gives no preference to any particular religion or mode of worship. Our public schools are not maintained as places of worship, but on the other hand are maintained for the purpose of mental and moral development and discipline."

He also failed to see how the teachers' rights under the same provision of the state constitution were violated by the act since "there is no law in the state of Tennessee that undertakes to compel the defendant or any other citizen to accept employment in the public schools."

These relations, he said, are purely contractual, "and if his conscience constrains him to teach the evolution theory, he can find opportunities elsewhere in other schools of the state x x x and give full expression to his beliefs and conviction upon this and other subjects without any interference from the state of Tennessee or its authorities."

"Neither do I see how the act lays any restraint on his right to worship according to the dictates of his conscience. Under the provisions of this act this defendant, or any other person can entertain any religious belief which most appeals to their conscience."

FIRST ANNUAL CAMP OF BOY SCOUTS TO BEGIN ON TUESDAY

120-345 Scout games, hikes, 3:45-4:45 Swimming.

Camping is healthful
Concerning the benefits of the camp, Scout Executive Brown said: "The average boy of today, just as he was of yesterday, is interested in swimming, interested in the trees, the birds, the stars, wild flowers, rocks and hills. The things that creep and crawl, wriggle and squirm, fly and run hold him. The camp fire, the tents, camping out, is his day and night dream, fond parent, just as it was yours not so very long ago. And why not?"

The boy's impulse is to go, go anywhere, any place, out west, to sea, go see the world. The Boy Scouts camp satisfies that runaway itching which has been the past cause of so many tears, heartaches and as has often been said, shipwrecked careers.

There is no place where boys have less sickness and where the general health is improved so much. The clean, pure air, the sun by day and the breezes through the tents by night, the swimming, hiking and vigorous exercise—what an appetite. Regular hours for rest and sleep with the program of scout out door activities which takes the boy away from muggy streets and the soda fountains, all contribute to health and joy of living for boys growing up.

There is nothing to take the place of Boy Scout camp, which will create in a boy such an interest in nature and in woodcraft, to teach him to look with interest at the birds and flowers, at the stars and constellations, create in him a desire to know how to prevent accidents and to learn self reliance and appreciation.

In Boy Scout camps class distinctions are never present, the uniform and the prescribed program in which all are equally interested are helps toward this end. Spending money is limited to a small allowance daily, to teach thrift and to prevent needless spending, just for show by boys in means, as well as for their good health.

Religion has its place, not conspicuous and formal, but none the less genuine. Non-sectarian so far as the camp management is concerned, but complying with the chosen faith of the boy's home church. Grace is observed at meals and Sunday is observed as a day of worship and the 12th law of the Scout is always given expression.

It is hoped that every parent of a Scout will gladly co-operate with the local scout council in making this summer's camp for boys a success by their attendance. By all means let your boy go with the rest if it is humanly possible; investigate conditions first, of course. That is only parents and will be welcomed by those in charge.

unlawfully deprive Scopes of any of his liberties, privileges or property.

"The alleged vagueness in the indictment, he held, did not exist, since it 'substantially copies the word of the statute and therefore is sufficiently certain.'"

Weakness charged in the law, in that there was an alleged discrimination against teachers as a class, he dismissed with a reading of a ruling by the state supreme court in which it was held that "class legislation which applied equally to all that are in or that may come into the like situation and circumstances and which makes a reasonable and natural classification, is valid and constitutional."

Dismissing the alleged violation of the 14th amendment to the constitution of the United States, Judge Raulston read a portion of the decision of the supreme court in the case of Meyer against the state of Nebraska in which it was held that a state prohibiting the teaching of any language other than English to children was not in conflict with the 14th amendment.

MOM 'N POP—
(By Hal Cochran.)

A couple of pedestals soar to the sky, and their occupants make us all glad. You've seen them, of course, in your little mind's eye. Let's consider them—mother and dad.

We all owe a debt that we never can pay, but at least we can make just the best of it, by showing our thanks in our acts, day by day—and they'll have to imagine the rest of it.

Right now is the time you can do little things that will show that, as daughter or son, you are happy for acts that real happiness brings to your parents, whenever they're done.

Our lives, after all, are too short to repay our folks for the things they have done for us. 'Tis best that we do one good act every day. What's the answer? It really means fun for us.

Say, where is the daughter or son who'll deny that there's everything in Mom 'N Pop? Let's start off today to repay—you and I—let's start it,
and then, never stop!

But It Is Enough.
A single small flower often forms
the only trimming for a small bang-

Shaded Effects Charming.
Several shades of gray are used to-lightest tone for the foundation.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
For Hardwood Floors.

On a hardwood floor use no water.
Wipe with a cloth moistened with kerosene oil.

Price of Neglect.

If you neglect the kitchen sink and leave unwashed dishes in it you must expect bad odors, water bugs and pests which not unfrequently bring disaster.

Cleaning Clothes.

All cleaning clothes should be washed, rinsed and dried after being used.

Correct Measuring.

To measure a cup of flour or dry material fill the cup with a spoon or scoop and level off with a case-knife.

CYNTHIA GREY SAYS—
Don't Marry Sheik Who Has No
Bating Average With Men.

"All the girls are crazy about him, but the boys can't stand him—just jealously though."

That was the way I heard a girl describing the sweetheart who had just bestowed the solitaire on her unreluctant finger.

I am apprehensive for her happiness. I give her just a few months of married life in which to realize that the type of men that "all the girls are crazy about" doesn't usually make the best husband, and that when a man is thoroughly disliked by other men, there is usually more than jealousy involved.

That is one reason why it is a good thing to get a man's estimate of the men you know and the men who take you around. That's why it is a good thing to have your suitors get acquainted with your father and your brothers, and see how he stacks up with other men.

After all, men can judge another man better than a woman can, just as women can judge another woman more keenly than men can.

You know that the woman who hasn't any friends among her own sex is one who doesn't deserve them. If a girl can't achieve some popularity among girls, there's something wrong with her somewhere. Either she's the selfish type who wants everything for herself, or she has no sense of ethics in dealing with her associates.

The really desirable girls are always liked by girls, even if they do inspire a little jealousy on the side and a catty remark now and then.

And girls, regardless of lots of tattle to the contrary, have a sense of loyalty and fairness. They have a respect and admiration for a girl who wins her triumphs fairly.

It's exactly the same with men.
There are certain rules by which the game of life is played. A man is entitled to everything he can win fairly, but if he doesn't play fairly, he loses

the respect of his fellow men.

You can depend on it a man who has no men friends is on edge who doesn't observe the rules.

All of us have a large percentage of vanity in our makeup. There's a sense of triumph in walking off with the man every other girl is crazy about. There's a nice tribute to our powers of attraction in it. But vanity makes us short-sighted and we need clear vision when we undertake anything so vital to happiness as the selecting of a husband or wife.

So I advise every girl to consider carefully before she marries the sheik who has no batting average with his own sex. He's not the material from which good husbands are made.

Is Dean of Girls
At Franklin Grove

Miss Bertha Bennett of this city is acting as Dean of Girls for the camp at the District Epworth League Institute being held at Franklin Grove this week.

There are 175 young people present from the Dixon district, and all are enjoying immensely the study periods in the morning, the recreational afternoons and the lectures during the evenings.

SHORT SKIRTS AND HIGH COLLARS—

New York, July 15.—(AP)—More leg and less neck will be on view next fall if the conception of autumn modes for women prevails as revealed at the showing of the National Garment Retailers' Association.

Skirts 15 or 16 inches off the floor, were not unusual at a showing last night, while collars were invariably high. For tailored dresses, there were vests that buttoned high at the neck.

Sleeves on dresses were either long and tight or long and flowing but always long.

The waist line was suggested more definitely than in recent seasons.

ATTENDED PARTY FOR JAMES

Farewell Party for Miss Myrl Leonard

Miss Myrl Leonard, who for the past three years has been chief nurse at the Dixon State Hospital, has been transferred to the state institution at Elgin.

Last evening 143 officers and employees of the hospital surprised Miss Leonard at her cottage in Assembly park. They presented her with a beautiful wardrobe trunk, a traveling bag and a thermos bottle as tokens of their esteem and friendship.

During the evening dancing was enjoyed and delightful refreshments were served.

Not only will Miss Leonard be greatly missed at the State Hospital, in her work and in the social life, but she will be missed by her many friends in Dixon who join in wishing her success in her new position.

Bridge Party Was Charming Affair

One of the delightful events of Tuesday afternoon was the bridge party given by Misses Clara and Dorothy Armstrong at their home on Hennepin avenue. The party honored Mrs. Charles Gregg of Chicago, who is the guest of the Misses Armington.

Garden flowers, with pink and white snap dragons predominating, were the lovely decorations. Dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Myrl Leonard was the winner of the first prize and Mrs. Ira Lanphier won the consolation prize.

The out-of-town guests present included Mrs. Charles Gregg of Chicago;

High Collar

Girlish simplicity is expressed in this tailored fastening to one of the new fall frocks. The collar fits closely about the throat and is buttoned to the very top edge. The higher collar is one of fashion's most insistent demands.

a two weeks' vacation spent here and in Dixon, says the Sterling Gazette.

The event was held at the home of William Beckingham, father and grandfather who is 82 years old. Eight brothers and sisters with their families to the number of 54 were present, all enjoying a delightful time. A picnic dinner was served at noon on the spacious lawn of the home. The James Beckingham family were former residents of Sterling, moving to Antigo, ten years ago. They renewed many of their old friendships while in Ster-

COOPERATIVE EXPERIMENTS.

Dissolution of the Grain Marketing company, which was a gigantic cooperative corporation designed to be owned by farmers, now is a certainty. It was an experiment, and interested persons will be able to profit by the experience of this group. On all sides it is agreed that some kind of cooperative action on the part of grain growers is necessary in order to stabilize markets and to preserve for farmers their profits. Failure of the Grain Marketing company, when it hardly had begun, will set back cooperative marketing to an incalculable degree.

It has been possible to organize cooperative livestock shipping associations, cooperative elevator companies, and cooperative creamery companies, and to carry on the business of these concerns profitably, because the farmer was in close contact with the business in which he was concerned.

In the case of the Grain Marketing company, he was asked to buy stock in a corporation capitalized at $26,000,000. The company had taken over elevator properties of the Armour and Rosenbaums and others. Promoters of this cooperative organization were former officers of the American Farm Bureau federation. The plan of operation depended upon sale of stock to the farmers. They did not buy.

Various reasons are set forth for the failure of the stock selling campaign. One is that the stock was put on the market when the farmer was without money. Another is that the business organization was too far distant for the cautious farmer. While the stupendous concern is said to have been looked upon with favor by the farm bureau organization, it has not been given full endorsement of such institutions as the Illinois Agricultural association. Somewhere along the line there was doubt. The size of the undertaking is enough to make the small farmer hesitate. Yet, organization of grain growers can not be done on a small scale, such as has been done among California fruit growers.

Success in cooperative marketing was most conspicuous in the California fruit field. It was found that while one eastern city might be glutted with orange shipments, there would be a shortage in another city. Where the market was glutted the auction prices would be low, but no one was profiting from the shortage in the other city, because no one was on the market.

By organizing the California Fruit exchange it was possible so to distribute the shipments that such conditions would be avoided. No oranges went into a market already loaded. Normal distribution and equitable distribution followed haphazard shipping.

To do this it was necessary only to control the packing house shipments from Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino, Pomona and smaller places in the valley and those from Los Angeles and its environs near the seaboard. That was not as much as organizing the farmers and the elevators in Illinois between the Rock Island railroad and the Wisconsin line. Following organization of the orange growers and packers came organization of other fruit lines, but their interests probably were even smaller.

Organizing grain growers means reaching Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The California plan of action has been successful. The great question is in its application to such a broad expanse of territory.

The results to be attained are substantially the same. In the case of the grain growers it is desired that the grain shall be handled that the market shall not be glutted. It is the purpose to allow grain to go into market on releases that will not cause a price slump when the farmers sell and a rise after the grain is in storehouses of the speculators and manipulators.

"SILENCE IS GOLDEN."

Some men boast of their ability to speak in four languages, others of their ability to keep silent in twenty.

But silence is not always a sign of strength. Sometimes it is a sign of cowardice.

When "right is on the scaffold and wrong is on the throne," to keep silent is to betray one's honor, to kill one's self-respect.

Patrick Henry, Savonarola, John Knox, Samuel Adams, Cardinal Mercier and thousands of humble and nameless have scorned a golden silence for dangerous but heroic speech and have died with their souls clean of self-reproach.

Silence is sometimes ignorance.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address received no editorial mention in any of the leading periodicals of that day. It remained for the next generation to discover the immortal beauty of that greatest of American utterances.

Roman historians either completely ignore Jesus of Nazareth or dismiss him with a single line. Yet "He lifted the gates of empires off their hinges and turned the stream of civilization into new channels."

Silence is sometimes selfish.

A gentle word of sympathy for a friend in distress is the mark of sincere friendship. A strong word of courage for a tempted youth is the glorious privilege of the righteous man. A reverent word of faith in an hour of uncertainty and doubt may set a life going in the way of large usefulness. A letter of appreciation to an honest official may turn the tide of public affairs.

An unselfish and heroic use of speech is a gift more precious than gold.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Most of these clinging vine women are poison ivy.

You would think an auto speeder would run instead of walking when afoot, but he doesn't.

Don't hesitate about telling a man you wish to marry his daughter. The chances are he wishes you would, too.

Babies have advantages. When one wants to leave a party all it has to do is cry a while.

Remember the old fashioned girl who screamed when you saw her picture in a bathing suit?

No matter how hot it becomes you can't make friends by giving them the cold shoulder.

Even women who like bargains don't care much for a man whose income has been reduced.

Everything in its place. Knees are all right swimming, but they attract attention in a ewing.

One fine thing about this weather is you know it won't snow before morning.

Work hard and do something so your family can loaf and do nothing.

The laziest man stretches out right after supper and sleeps until time to go to bed.

As you look so are you going. And if you keep looking backward you will go that way.

Changing your mind too fast may get it twisted.

Mosquitoes never know what temperature you have.

Women's clothes may be the most sensible. But a man can't drop cigarette ashes down his collar.

Distance lends enchantment except when you are out of gas.

Some clouds have silver linings and others are silver coated.

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL

Even the French tentative reply to the German security proposal again turns on one word.

Emphasizing that the Versailles treaty remains in full force, the reply adds that "each" signatory of existing treaties will have the right to enforce those treaties.

That "each" is a reiteration of the assertion of the right to separate instead of joint action, which led to the invasion of the Ruhr and might, at any time, on the sole decision of France, break the peace of Europe.

If France claims that a certain act took place, and is a violation of the treaty, and England claims that it did not take place, or would not be a violation of the treaty if it did, there is to be no joint decision, and no reference to the League of Nations.

"Each" nation concerned is to make its own decision and take its own steps.

Which is exactly the basis, not of peace, but of war. That one word "each" is fatal.

WHAT OBJECTIONS TO BIRTH CONTROL IMPLY

Now it is the Swedish-born church that is agitated over "birth control" in this case, apparently favorably.

The traditionalists of all creeds who are shocked by such proposals should accept both horns of the dilemma or neither.

So long as man did not interfere with death, he did not need to interfere with birth, the matter took care of itself.

But now, by medicine, by sanitation, by personal hygiene, by quarantine, by every possible means, man is interfering with death.

If that keeps on it becomes a matter, not of morals or religion, but of mathematics, when he must interfere with birth also.

If there are innumerable moral or doctrinal objections to interfering with birth, then it becomes not merely logical, but physically and mathematically imperative, to let death take its course, too.

FABLES ON HEALTH

The secret of long life, enjoyed by ones self and valued by one's friends, is moderation, temperance and contentment.

By this is meant moderation in contrast to the nervous life that never takes time to live; temperance in contrast to feasting, drinking, and sacrifice of sleep for the so-called social pleasures, and contentment in contrast to pessimistic philosophy that sees nothing but evil in life.

Many who think they have chronic and perhaps incurable stomach trouble, find the trouble to vanish when the diet is simplified.

It is true that some persons who indulge in all the physical and mental vices, live to an advanced age, but if they would take better care of themselves they probably would live longer. Moderation should be observed in alcohol, coffee, tea, tobacco and drugs.

Moderation also should be observed in physical exercise. But few athletes live to be 80 years old. Once an athlete one can not afford to adopt an inactive life, lest he go stale.

In middle life one should have exercise. But this exercise should not be violent exercise.

Exercise is beneficial when it is pleasurable, when it is an activity that can be looked forward to with pleasant anticipation.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 15—CATS, DOGS, AND TOTEM POLES

"Didn't you bring an umbrella?" shouted a voice above the din.

The porcupineapple never caught up to the mail boat, so that was the last the Twins ever saw of him.

As for the snail, he fell sound asleep, and when he did so his horns drew in. That brought the sail down and the boat to a dead stop.

"Well, this looks like the end of it," said Nick, jumping out of the cockle-shell boat and wading ashore.

"It's the end of that anyway," said Nancy, following at Nick's heels. "We'll never find the Fairy Queen's bees at this rate."

Just then there was a thump and a howl, and another thump and a spit, and then more thumps and howls and spits and the ground around the Twins was simply covered with cats and dogs all yelling their heads off.

"It's raining cats and dogs!" cried Nick.

"Didn't you bring an umbrella?" shouted a voice above the din. "It's almost sure to sprinkle in the Land of Wonders. It's always wise to carry one."

There stood a man with a hat brim as wide as a table. But no more umbrella than I have at this minute and I've nothing in my hand but a pen.

"Ha, ha! I see you are curious," said the man. "It's my umbrella hat. I invented it myself. I can also use it for a chair or a table, at my convenience, by turning it upside down. Also it saves me carfare. By buckling it tightly under my chin and waiting for a stiff breeze, I can have all the trips I wish for nothing. Ah! The dogs and cats have stopped. There is the sun! We are sure to have a spanking breeze now, so I'll be going. I shall now turn my hat into an aeroplane."

The queer man put on goggles, buckled a strap under his chin, took off his shoes and stuck them into his pocket—to make him lighter he said—and stuck a pinwheel on the edge of the brim of his huge hat. Instantly it started to buzz, the pinwheel did, and the man began to rise.

"Goodbye!" he called. "Sorry I can't take you, but this is a one-passenger car. I'll built a rumble-seat sometime and come and get you."

Away he sailed through the air before the astonished children had a minute to ask him about the Fairy Queen's honey-bees. When they turned around, all the puppy-dogs and kittens were gone, too.

"This is the queerest place yet," said Nick. "Nothing stays long enough for you to do anything."

"It'll stay," said another voice. The Twins turned and saw a sort of telegraph pole with about ten faces painted all over it in bright colors.

"I'm a regular stick-in-the-mud,"

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

AHRENS

said one of the faces. "They call me a totem pole. But I don't know why. I never toted anything anywhere and I've been here for so many years I've started to count backwards."

"That's true, agreed all the other faces solemnly. "But we've improved our time. We've learned music. One of us sings tenor, and one bass, one toots like a whistle, and one goes dum-dum like a drum, and one squeals like a violin. We have a whole orchestra. Please turn that knob! Thank you."

The totem pole then played a tune, the queerest tune the children had ever heard. It really sounded like a dozen wild animals all yelling to be fed.

"It's we who are queer," thought the Twins politely. "It is most likely considered fine music here. But it has nothing to do with bees."

White Snakeroot Has Started Its Ravages

Urbana—White snakeroot, a poisonous weed that is starting its deadly work about two months earlier than usual, has caused among Illinois livestock about two months earlier than usual, sometimes leads to the death of human beings who drink the milk or eat the milk products from affected cows, announced authorities at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Dr. Robert Graham, chief of the animal pathology and hygiene division has renewed his warning that farmers keep cattle, sheep and horses off of pastures that are known to be infested with the weed.

"Normally the weed does not cause the characteristic 'thimbles' in horses, sheep and cattle and the consequent 'milk sickness' in man until the latter part of August, after pastures have dried up and livestock turn to the weed as a source of green succulent feed," according to Dr. Robert Graham. "Premature browning of pastures this year as a result of spring drouths accounts for the early appearance of the poison."

"That the white snakeroot weed is widespread throughout the state is shown by the fact that three and four specimens of it are being sent to the college each week for identification by farmers and veterinarians in different parts of the state. Monroe and St. Clair counties are two in which the weed has most recently been found.

To date, however, no case has come to light in which the seriousness of the poisoning equals that found in a northern Illinois herd of 24 Holsteins, half of which will probably die before the poisoning is checked.

EGAN DRIVES GREAT RACE TO WIN GEERS TOLEDO MEMORIAL

Pilots Thompson Dillon to Victory in First and Third Heats

Toledo, Ohio, July 15—(AP)—Thompson Dillon, of the Cox stables, coupled in the betting with Hollywood Jessie the other Cox entry, won the $25,000 Geers' Memorial Sweepstakes Tuesday. Thompson Dillon was driven by Fred Egan, who gave the gelding one of the finest drives ever given a horse to win the third heat and race. Thompson Dillon handily won the first heat in 2:04 1/2. Sumatra trotted a great race and took the second heat in 2:02 1/4, one-quarter of a second slower than the world's record. Ben White was in Sumatra's sulky. Then Egan drove his great mile in the third heat and took the event and major prize money of $14,000.

Misunderstood Starter.
An unfortunate occurrence arose in the second heat of the race. Starting Judge Winnings shouted the word "Go" to the drivers on one of the scores and rang his bell to bring them back, but the reinsmen evidently mistook his "No" for the word "Go" and failed to heed the signal to return. At first the judges were inclined to call it no heat, but as all the drivers tried to win the mile the officials took a vote and decided to allow the heat to stand.

Tommy Murphy drove two winners in the other events on the afternoon's card. He piloted Queen Volo to victory in straight heats in the second division of the 2:16 trot and sent Hollywood Leonard around in front in each of the three heats of the 2:05 trot. Nat Ray with Braden K. Direct won the 2:06 pace, and Dickerson, with Guy Trogan, captured the first division of the 2:16 trot.

PIRATES DROVE VANCE TO CLUB HOUSE TUESDAY

Corsaires No Respecters of Celebrities in Their Dash

New York, July 15—(AP)—The Pirates have no respect for celebrities in their drive for a pennant. They knocked the National League's most valuable player, Dazzy Vance, off the mound yesterday, defeated the Dodgers, 8-5, and clung to their meager lead.

Vance was stopped after winning six straight games. He was hammered for 11 hits in four innings, which netted the Pirates all of their eight runs. At the same time his strike-out record received a rude setback, only two Pittsburgh players whiffing during his term on the rubber. He has a total of 120 strikeouts out of 18 starts.

The Giants continue to dog at the heels of the leaders. Yesterday they fumbled Maranville's Cubs, 6-3. Frankie Frisch hit safely for the 17th consecutive game. In his last 69 times at bat he has hit safely 31 times, giving him a mark well over .500.

The Reds bundled up a packet of nine runs in the sixth inning against the Braves and walked in with a 9-6 victory.

Cy Williams made a timely home run and the Phils trounced the Cardinals, 6-4.

In the other circuit, Washington lost a bit of ground when trimmed, 14-3, by the Browns, while the Athletics, Washington's immediate neighbor in the flag section of the standing, won from the Tigers, 12-4.

The White Sox whitewashed the Yanks, 3-0. Babe Ruth is out of the game again, having a slight wrench. In Cleveland, Buckeye gained a 6-1 decision over the faltering Red Sox. This sensation has now won four straight starts, allowing only 27 hits in 36 innings.

Golf Champion Out of Tourney: Hands Skinned

New York, July 15—(AP)—Having won two big golf tournaments in six weeks by play-offs, Willie Mac Farlane, national open champion, finds his hands wrecked and he has withdrawn from the Metropolitan tournament which starts tomorrow at Grassy Sprain and ends Saturday.

With the skin off his hands in many places, he won the annual tournament at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., ending yesterday, by defeating Bill Klein, of Garden City, in a play-off. The champion lost the extra round in 71, four strokes less than his opponent. They had tied with a record breaking 233 for 72 holes. Notwithstanding tape and plaster, the champion had 3 remarkable rounds during the day, 70, 70 and 71. As he walked off the home green he said he guessed that would be his last tournament for a while and immediately telegraphed his withdrawal from the Metropolitan. It was a play off with Bobby Jones that he won his title at Worcester last month.

Some of the cream of the golfing field of the nation will compete in the Metropolitan open.

Dempsey and Bride are Due Home from Honeymoon

Did You Ever Stop to Think—

BY
E. R. Waite, Secretary,
Shawnee, Okla. Board of Commerce

THAT one of the surprising things about the average man of today is his ignorance of the many kinds of service that public service corporations stand ready to give him.

THAT business in every section would be better if every man realized that the ambition of every public service corporation is to build up and enlarge the communities they serve.

THAT public service corporations realize fully that pep, efficiency and service win, and only those that are well managed start somewhere and get somewhere.

THAT they are eager to be of every possible service, and for that reason employ only men of character and ambition as their managing officers; men who know their business and look to the future with confidence.

THAT these men actually think about what they are doing and why they do it; men who devote their time to rendering a double duty to their companies and their communities.

PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATIONS ARE IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE AND THE PUBLIC NEVER LET THEM FORGET THAT FACT.

IF PEOPLE KNEW THEM BETTER, THEY WOULD VALUE THEM MORE.

The WELL DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

On The Dance Floor

What has dug the American's evening suit out of the dusty recesses of moth-proof bag or tar closet? Unquestionably the vogue of the modern dances. Without them to give one an excuse for wearing evening dress regularly, "snowy linen and inky worsted" might have gone the way of the cutaway coat and the high hat, now, to many of us, only fond memories of vanished days and ways. Dancing may be everything that its detractors inveigh against it, but it has certainly taught us to put on evening clothes frequently and wear them with self-assurance, instead of acting in them as shamefacedly as the small boy surprised at the jam shelf. The only way to feel at home in evening dress is to seek, not shun, the occasions which prescribe it. Practice sharpens skill, you know, whether it's making love, trouble, buttonholes, biscuits or a smart appearance.

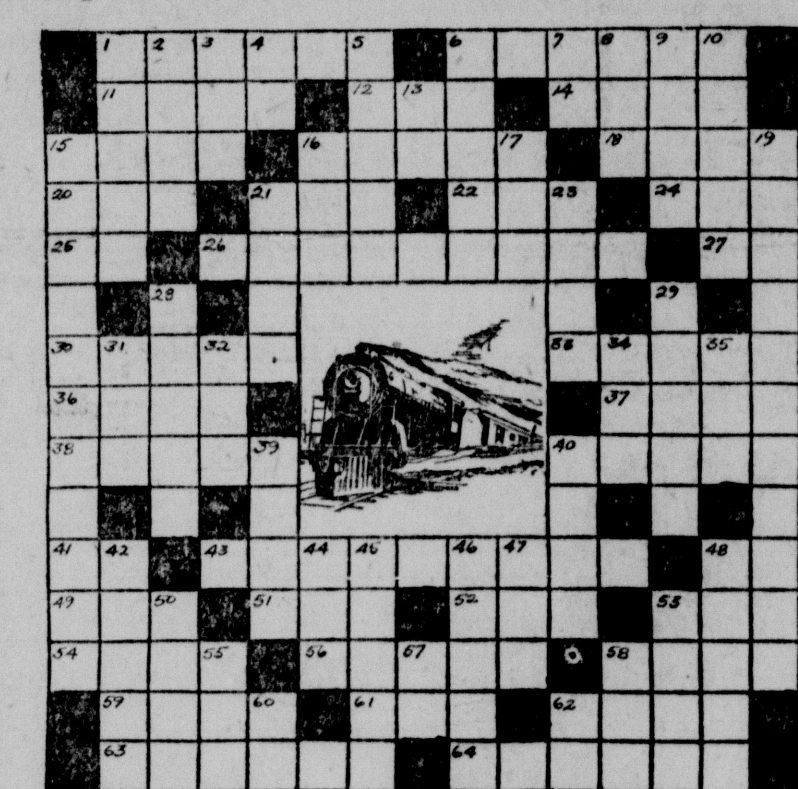

The shoe now almost universally accepted as proper to accompany evening clothes is the patent leather Oxford, as illustrated here. It has the advantage over the, now, outmoded high buttoned boot that it does not constrain or whipaw the instep. It is superior to the old-fashioned pump in that it cannot slip at the heel and get lost in the shuffle of dancing feet. It is made with a light, flexible, wafer-thin, beveled sole so that the foot can be flexed as easily as though it were bare.

The tip upon your patent leather Oxford must be plain. The plain effect is always the mark of the formal shoe, as distinguished from the street shoe. The toe of the smart dance Oxford is oval and tapering or squarish and spade-shaped, the latter being a French style introduced about ten years ago, but not generally adopted in America until within the last few years. Sometimes the inside of the fashionable dance shoe is lined with soft kid-skin for greater smoothness and to prevent staining hosiery by perspiration.

The care of so delicate a shoe as one's patent leather dance Oxford is very important. Always mount it upon a wooden tree or form when not in use. This prevents both cracking and wrinkles from gaining lodgment. Metal forms are not to be advised. Rub the leather occasionally with a bit of soft chamois cloth to renew its lustre. Do not have the shoe polished too often, as creams and greases, however good, are prone to roughen and stiffen the leather. Be more thoughtful of your dance shoes and they will be more restful to your feet.

The RED RAIN MYSTERY

HEADON HILL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SAMUEL HONEYBUN, retired English countryman, finds blood in his rain gauge on the morning of the murder.
SIR FRANCIS LATHROP, Sir Francis' daughter, Margaret, had planned to marry—SIR GUY LATHROP against her father's wish and suspicion is directed toward Sir Guy. But—ADRIAN STONE, detective, employed by Margaret works on the theory that Honeybun may know something of the murder.
To obtain evidence in the case he poses as—
REV. CHARLES DANVERS, and takes up his residence at the inn close to Lathrop Grange. He leaves suddenly when blood is reported found in the rain-gauge of Sir Francis' daughter, Margaret.
These he meets—
TED KNOWLES, reporter, returns from a fruitless call on Stampage. They discuss the latest angles in the mystery and agree to meet again later.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

THE two men parted. Knowles going toward the station and Klyne along the road marshward. His boots squeaked in the sloppy mire, the wind-driven drops from his cape-like blindfold him, but he kept on to the gates of a fairly large house.

There was no vegetation or shrubbery or copse to veil a more stealthy reconnaissance, so Klyne marched boldly up to the weathered front door and pulled the old-fashioned bell-chain. There was a long wait before the door was cautiously opened by a hefty young man in shirt-sleeves and a striped waistcoat. He had the biceps of a prizefighter, but one of his arms was in a sling. The source of the blood?

"I want to see Mr. Stampage," said Klyne.

"There's a many does that as don't see him," was the reply.

"I know he is in," persisted Klyne. "I met a man on the road not long ago whom he threatened to shoot."

"I didn't know that, but it's the master all over," laughed the servant. "It's the way he'd treat you if he was in, which he ain't. He went out five minutes before you rang."

Klyne looked the fellow over from head to foot and decided that he was speaking the truth.

"Very well," he said. "I'll take your word for it and drop in on Mr. Stampage tomorrow."

"Who shall I tell him called?" queried the servant.

Klyne did not answer, but turned away to re-examine the uncultivated enclosure which could not be dignified with the name of garden. He was half way to the road, when away to the right there sounded the shrill scream of a woman. Klyne halted in his tracks and strove to locate its source.

The light had quite faded now the thick rain and the darkness of night hiding all objects over thirty yards away. But his sense of direction told him that the cry had been raised out on the marsh and he went forward till he came to a plank bridge leading from Mr. Stampage's grounds to the sodden flats beyond. On the other side of the bridge he found himself on a raised embankment running out into the marsh. From some distance along the footway a great red eye was blinking at him.

Creeping close, he was overjoyed to find that the red curtains did not quite meet in the middle. There was a narrow space through which he could peer into the interior.

There was a woman there all right but she did not look as if she had been screaming. On the contrary she seemed singularly complacent and on the best of terms with the tall, austere-visaged man in earnest conversation with her. The man was standing up, while the woman was perched on the edge of a round table.

And wonder of wonders the woman was a room for you too. I

Klyne marched boldly on to the weather scaled front door.

That's what we must do."

Klyne turned away, making his way back over the plank bridge and so to the road. If Mr. Stampage was the girl's uncle she was in no danger from him.

But why on earth had she loosed off that ghastly scream?

On the train he sought out a seat by himself, and half an hour later he was at Becder. He was surprised and not a little gratified to find his journalistic friend, Mr. Ted Knowles of the Planet, on the platform to receive him.

"A little of each," was the frank reply. "The fact is the only decent hostility in this one-horse place is crowded with Fleet Street boys from their papers. So I am in a private dining, and I took the liberty of taking a room for you too. I

"There kin be no doubt that the great luck of the discontented and unhappiness that keeps the world unsettled is traced directly to the publication of movie stories," declares Professor Tansey, Ph. ## THE TANGLE

"What did you do with the other one?" I said to my host, "and weren't you superstitious about breaking the pair?"

"I never had the other one," answered Mr. Sartoris. "If you are

Good Dispositions Invaluable

You can't watch your disposition too carefully. A crab and a grouch are rarely successful. If your liver and stomach are in an unhealthy condition you can not have a sunny disposition because they affect the brain as well as the entire system. May's Wonderful Remedy has been usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. sure the story will not bore you, I will tell it."

"Go on," said Sydney. "It is most interesting."

"I was wandering around a town in the interior of China, looking for some Chinese curios, when I came upon a little shop very near the temple, which was the reason for the town. There I found an old man who spoke no English, and whose Chinese was one of those queer dialects of which China is full. He was very courteous, and we looked all over his shop, but I found nothing that amused me.

"At last we went to a desk and in a hidden drawer he found this piece of jade. I gathered from what he said that it was not for sale, but that he wanted to show it to me.

"As soon as I knew this gem was not for sale, I found myself wanting it as I have never wanted anything in my life."

"That's one of the idiosyncrasies of mankind," remarked Jack sentimentally.

"The man kept jabbering away, and I only understood a word here and there, although I am perhaps one of the few Americans who speak and understand pure Chinese. There was some great reason why I could not be allowed to buy it, although I could not make out what the reason was. I pulled out a couple of handfuls of gold coin to tempt the old man, but he shook his head. Finally, when I added a third to it, I broke down his objections, and he let me have it on the condition that if he ever got hold of the man statue he would let me know and I was to come from any place on earth and buy it from him.

"Only a few days ago I received word that he had found the original statue to his piece. That's the reason I'm sailing tomorrow after Mrs. Prescott and her friends lunch with me."

"And you're going to sail thousands of miles to get a little piece of jade?" asked Jack incredulously.

"No," Mr. Sartoris said. "I am sailing thousands of miles on a unique adventure."

"But even after you get it, Sartoris," said Syd quietly, "the two statues will still be parted, for you have just given Mrs. Prescott one of them, you know."

"Don't Syd," I said. "Mr. Sartoris might feel called upon to give me the other statue, for I gave him fair warning now, I shall never return this one to him."

"That's the American way," said Jack. "They smash all traditions, and probably Sartoris here will be carrying around a very unhappy little man, and you, my dear, will be carrying the woman of his heart and destiny."

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema is a better name only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
